Cookie policy

At Crown Vocational Training we use cookies to help us to:

- Provide our learners and website visitors with a better web experience
- Continue to provide the information our website visitors are seeking
- Provide us with general information such as from which town or country visits are coming from (we use Google Analytics for this)
- Monitor the effectiveness of our advertising

We do not use cookies to:

- Identify visitors by name
- To gather personal information about an individual (unless express permission is given)

The only time we gather an individual's details is where they have signed up for a newsletter or requesting information about a course or programme that we offer. In these cases you will be expressly asked for your contact details by, for example, typing it into an online form.

Recent EU "cookie legislation" requires us to gain visitors' consent to use certain cookies. However advice on the implementation of this legislation is vague and many government websites do not appear to have solved the implementation of the legislation. We are therefore working to implement appropriate changes to our website. As soon as suitable advice on what is acceptable has been established by the appropriate authorities we will also implement that advice.

Until the EU clarifies the legislation continued use of this site will be used to signify that you are content to our use of cookies in this way.